Rainbow Trail That Ends in Jail

Iron bars at the end of the rainbow trail await thousands of the immigrants who are flocking to California, a typical group of whom are shown here in gondola and boxcar, nearing the Golden State border. Scores of the wanderers, drawn, upon Sinclair's toes have charged, by his Epic job and land plan, are being given jail terms as many as 30 a day receiving sentences in a single Los Angeles court.

PERFECTION SHOULD GUIDE PREPARATION OF INVALID'S TRAY

Nourishing Foods Can Be Disguised to Keep Them From Becoming Monotonous to the Recuperating Patients.

By MARY E. DAGUE
(NEA Service Staff Writer.)

Operation over the patient comes home from the hospital, and everybody draws a breath of relief—but there is still a long pull ahead. For convalescence is a long tedious chore for everybody, especially for mother, who must prepare tempting dishes that are neither too rich nor yet too light to build up new vim and vigor.

Unless this is a special case, milk is the basis of the convalescent's diet—milk amply supplemented by fruits.

Pure orange juice, slightly sweetened and diluted grape juice and

The brightest of china and silverware should be used to make the invalid's tray as attractive as possible.

TOMORROW'S MENU

Breakfast: Stewed prunes, cereal, cream, waffles with honey milk, coffee.

Luncheon: Creamed salmon and peas, celery hearts, popovers, prune whip, milk, tea.

Dinner: Oyster stew, oyster crackers, casseroles of ham and sweet potatoes and pineapple threaded cabbage and green pepper salad, quince pudding, milk, coffee.

lemonade are all good, and of course canned and stewed dried fruits.

The captious patient who will not drink may be served cream soups, vegetables in well-made cream sauces, milk desserts and puddings with cream, plain or whipped.

Eggs Can Be Disguised

Eggs are important, too, unless the patient has an idiosyncrasy against them. Poached, coddled or shirred, they may take the place of meat. In custards or beaten into milk and flavored with vanilla or nutmeg, they are nourishing and easily digested.

Meats should be used sparingly, especially the muscular cuts. Liver and sweetbreads are better. Be sure that only very tender meat is served on the invalid's tray. In this connection it is well to remember that the expensive cuts have no advantage over the cheaper ones, providing the cheaper cuts are carefully cooked until tender.

With salads, milk drinks, cream soups, cereals, vegetables, fruit fruit whips, gelatin and milk and egg desserts there's no reason for letting the daily tray look monotonous.

One thing to remember is never to serve a sick person anything that is not perfect in its way. The custard is over-baked and watery, let some well member of the family eat it to "save it" if you must, but do a fresh one for the invalid.

Tray Must Be Orderly

Arrange the tray in an orderly manner without crowding, the various articles placed so they may be handled easily.

Be careful not to fill dishes too full. Liquids spill easily when carried on a tray, so use an individual beverage pot if you can. Be sure that hot foods are hot and cold ones cold.

Pretty dishes, a flower on the tray sparkling glass, gleaming mask napkin of good size and shining silver means much to a person who has nothing much to do but get well.

New Uses Suggested For Cranberries

(NEA Service Staff Writer.)

Every day I become more convinced that there's nothing new under the sun. I suppose almost any housekeeper would tell you that we've only known about vitamins a short time. Yet I've just discovered certain tribes of American Indians long ago believed the cranberry to have the power to help prolong life and they ate the cranberries almost as a solemn rite.

Well, they were right. Cranberries contain vitamins, life-giving vitamins, and the Indians knew it many hundreds of years ago. Of course the cranberry that we eat in sauce with our Thanksgiving turkey is a great improvement over the Indians' wild variety. And did you ever try cranberry sauce with veal and pork as well as turkey? There are other uses than sauce for the juicy little berry, too.

Ice Instead of Jelly

Cranberry ice often takes the place of sauce or jelly at a formal dinner, cranberry sherbet makes a good dessert after a hearty dinner and cranberry juice cocktail is a stimulating first course, and you can make a lot of salads and desserts with cranberries.

When cranberries are used in a sauce, cook without sugar until berries are tender. This method produces the finest flavor and requires a minimum of sweetening. Also, the fruit should not be cooked too long.

There are several reasons why cranberries should be used more freely than they are, but there is one precaution to keep in mind regarding them. Scientific research shows, that despite the fact that their ash is alkaline they tend to increase body acidity. Consequently persons who must guard against this tendency should not indulge too freely in the gaudy red berry. With this exception, cranberries are valuable for their mineral content, since they are especially rich in iron and are a good source of iodine. As green vegetables become scarce, they can be used to furnish mineral salts.

Cranberry Ice

One quart cranberries, 2 1/2 cups granulated sugar, 1 1/2 cups boiling water, 1 orange, 2 lemons.

Wash and pick over berries, put berries and water into a large sauce pan and cook until soft. Rub through a sieve. Add sugar, 1/2 cup boiling water and juice of orange and lemons. Stir until sugar is dissolved. Pour into a mold and pack in equal parts of ice and salt. Let stand three or four hours before serving.

A ROVING ALLEY-CAT

By Mary Cockburn Bonke

I'm an alley cat—
A lean cat and lone.
A bad cat; a ragged cat and sad.
I'm a lanky, scrawny, tailless cat.
A bobbed cat—a Tom.
A hungry, fighting cat and mad.
The minstrel of the night.
The still night; the dark night and light.
I'm no one's petting party.
Not for me the cozy fireside or the hearth.

I'm no lap or cushion cat.
But a night hawk bold and free
A wild cat—and glad!
A half fed cat—and starved,
No ribbon 'round my neck,
No saucer filled with "muck",
I'm just living on my luck.
I'm a bold bad cat with fleas,
The kind dogs like to tease.
I'm a target for your missiles and your jests—
I've been sworn at and thrown at,
I'm lame and have but half an ear.
But my voice is strong and clear
As I sing my song of cheer
On the back fence,
In the alley at the rear.

PARENT SHIFTS BURDEN OF CHILD TO TEACHER

Unless we revise our way of training children in the public school, we may presently find that we have reared a generation of "jaded old youngsters" utterly devoid of a sense of value.This is the warning Dr. William Ernest Hocking, professor of philosophy at Harvard, issued to a school teachers' convention in Ohio recently.Teaching children how to solve problems in arithmetic, how to spell, how to reel off the names of the presidents, and how to bound the state of Kentucky, Dr.
Hocking suggests, is pretty nearly useless unless, at the same time, we give them the mental and emotional training which will enable them to get something out of their lives besides the empty repetition of a monotonous routine.Now the significant thing about this is the fact that the speaker seems to take it for granted that the youngsters are to get this kind of development in the school rather than in the home.One of the most profound changes any human society could undergo has been taking place in this country in recent years, and most of us have hardly noticed it.We have not only given to our schools the job of teaching our children how to read and write; we have, to a very great extent, also given them the task of developing our children's character, establishing their ideals, and suggesting to them the approaches to adulthood.A homely illustration will show the trend. Hardly anyone spans his child any more; and while that may be an excellent thing, the old-time firmness of parental discipline has pretty largely vanished at the same time.It has been transferred to the school room. The child whose parents "can't do a thing with him"—and his name is legion, nowadays—loses the mark in school very obediently.He has to. He knows teachers will make it hot for him if he doesn't.Now this is merely a symbol of the way in which we have transferred parental responsibilities to the school ma'am. The only reason why we are not raising the most spoiled brats the world ever knew is that the schools are doing our work for us.It is for that reason that Dr. Hocking's warning is timely. It calls on the educators to recognize that they have been given a responsibility which, from time immemorial, has rested on the parent.Motorists of Illinois have one of the outstanding road systems of the world over which to travel. The specifications for Illinois roads, as worked out by Republican officials, have been adopted by every major country. Every motorist who drives 1400 miles has saved, in repair and upkeep bills, enough to pay for his state license. Every mile he drives after that amount represents an actual cash dividend on his original outlay for license. Ninety cents out of every dollar spent on the roads of this state is spent for labor, and a large part of this represents skilled labor. The use of the road funds, whether from license fees or gas tax, for any other purpose is a penalty applied to labor, amounting to from ten per cent up. The Democrats have been very rofigi-ate in the use of funds intended for road work. They have diverted it to many other uses. Why should labor be penalized?Government expenditures last week totaled more than 189 million dollars. The week before they were only 103 million dollars. Ordinary expenses, the routine government expenses, were more than double those of the week before. The FERA spent more than 55 million dollars on relief, 37 million dollars more than was needed the week before. The public debt was increased last week by more than 98 million dollars, bringing the total for the current fiscal year to $27,228,279,000 compared with 23,059,739,000 a year ago.—Danville Commercial-News.Those who think that the world, and particularly the United States, are finished, tire me. In my opinion, the average standard of living, even in our own country, is not within 10 per cent of what it should and can be.— John E. Galvin, president Ohio Steel Foundry Company.The army air corps, like civil aviation, has been made a political football, not only by Congress, but much worse, by the general staff itself.—Reed Chambers, vice president U. S. Aviation Underwriters, Inc.A lawyer who does not represent his client with the same fidelity as a reputable physician cares for his patient should not be permitted to practice.—George E.
Brand, president Detroit Bar Association.We have had a lot of pious twaddle from celibate clergymen who are about as far from knowledge of the realities of life as the man in the moon.—The Rt. Rev.

Wheeler Dam Shown in Amazing Beauty by Architect

Startling in its massive beauty, the $40,000,000 Wheeler dam is shown here in an architect's concep-

Tennessee River, and is part of the TVA program. More than a mile long and 60 feet high, it is being built primarily for flood control and navigation, with power at first being only a by-product.
A 45,000-horsepower turbine will be installed, with space for additional installations that will total 450,000 horsepower.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

CHRISTIAN GROWTH

TEXT: LUKE 2:42-52; II Peter
1:5-8.(By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.)
(Editor of Advance)There is great value in the picture we have in the first part of our lesson of the normal development of Jesus. We are too apt to think of His life as lived under miraculous circumstances, and too little disposed to see and remember that the miraculous thing about His life was that, in normal experience from babyhood to manhood,
He should have revealed the glory of the Divine.A lesson like this brings home to us very vividly the sense of this divine life manifesting itself in the earthly environment of a boy's daily growth and progress.He does not come in one burst into the glory of the things that He has come to reveal, but the record is that, in this earthly life,
He "increased in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man."Too little stress is laid upon the normal side of religious growth and progress. We have rightly thought of the power of the Gospel
in its transformation of evil lives into good lives.We have laid great stress upon conversion and quite properly so;
but in our emphasis upon the crucial experience through which a man's life is changed and the great experiences through which stages of progress are often marked, we have tended to neglect the growth that occurs in character and Christian experience when normal conditions are fulfilled.Two things stand forth very vividly in this experience of Jesus in the Temple, as a boy of 12, discussing religious matters with the Doctors of Divinity of His time.
One is the emphasis upon the fact that we have not an abnormal boy
—a sort of infant prodigy—but that we have a boy whose growth has been orderly and normal, and whose distinction is in the simplicity with which He sees and states
His religious ideas.

The second thing is this way in which Jesus learned He gives us the secret of it in later life when He assures His disciples that they must be as little children if they would know the truth.That has been about the hardest thing for men everywhere to learn. The process of unlearning and freeing our minds from prejudices and wrong ideas, of getting right viewpoints instead of wrong viewpoints, is the chief problem of learning.Once we can get open minds and open hearts, there is the possibility of facts penetrating and of being understood. This seems to have been the means by which Jesus had a wisdom even in early life that doctors had not found.In the second portion of our lesson, the verse quoted from II Peter, we are reminded that the process of growth that was normal in Christ can go on in us. We can give diligence and can add virtue to our faith, and to virtue knowledge, and keep on in this virtuous addition until all the graces of Christian living are manifest in our lives.It is these things that make it evident that we have learned of Jesus and that we are not unfruitful in the knowledge of Him—

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

When Coppy reached the ladder top, he said, "It would be an awful drop from here down to ground.
I feel as dizzy as can be."
"Gee, so do I," said Duncy, who was right behind. "It is up to you to crawl right through that window, and then tell me what you see.""Aw, wait a minute! First I'll yell. That is the wisest way to tell if some one is in this castle."
Duncy yelled with a frown.
"I don't think there is a thing to fear, but if you're scared to stay up here, I will investigate alone and you can climb right down."And then he shouted, "Hey!
Hello! Who is in this place, I would like to know?" He waited for a little while, but there came no reply."Well, I am going in," said he.
"Come on now, Duncy, follow me.
We'll crawl right through the window. I have pushed it away up high."

The other Thymites, below,

cried, "Where you go, we're going to go!" Then up the ladder they all quickly scrambled, one by one.
Of course, brave Scouty took the lead. Said he, "Some good nerve is all you need. No doubt, in this big castle, we will have a lot of fun."From room to room they wandered and soon Windy shouted,
"Oh, how grand! Just gaze at that sof-looking bed. My, what a place to snooze!"
Then the two girls who'd searched around, came running in. Said they, "We have found another dandy little bed that we are going to use.""Then we are all set," cried we Duncy. "Now, I am going to show you Times how to bounce upon a real soft bed, and get tossed all about," some of the others joined the lad, and what a lot of fun
they had. It wasn't very long until they were all tired out.

Where Salmon Spawn

The spawning habits of salmon depend on the species. The Pacific salmon live in salt water during their adult life and spawn in the fresh water of the Columbia river spawn only once and die without returning to the sea. The salmon

ATTENDANCE AT BIG TEN GAMES TO SET RECORD

Four Undefeated Outfits in Action on Com- ing Saturday

Chicago, Nov. 1—(AP)—Big Ten football attendance figures, already well ahead of the thriving 1933 season, will be swelled by upwards of 185,000 thrill seeking fans with all conference teams in action Saturday.

Four undefeated teams, three of them within the conference, will risk their prized records on the day's football menu calling for six contests, some of them highly important and others just football games.

Michigan's invasion of Minnesota's mighty horde at Minneapolis is expected to attract 60,000, the record throng of the day, with 55,000 or more watching undefeated Army tangle with undefeated Illinois at Champaign. At Stagg Field, 23,000, the largest crowd at that stadium in three years, is a certainty for the important Purdue vs. Chicago game. Ohio State and Western Reserve expect 20,000 to 25,000 for their battle at Cleveland; Indiana and Iowa look for 17,000 at Bloomington and Northwestern and Wisconsin should attract at least 15,000 at Evanston despite their respective unsuccessful seasons.

Four Other Games
Four other games, involving important midwestern teams, promise to draw close to 100,000 with the Notre Dame-Pittsburgh game topping them all with 60,000 or more. The other games and the anticipated attendances at each are: Kansas vs. Iowa State at Ames, 10,000; Oklahoma A. & M. vs. Detroit at Detroit, 15,000; and Marquette vs. Michigan State at East Lansing, 14,000.

Along the Big Ten front, these are some of the football magnets attracting the crowds:

Army vs. Illinois
A battle of two comparatively light and highly polished eleven with the result a toss-up and a great battle of wits between the two Jacks—Jack Buckler of Army and Jack Beynon of Illinois. Coach Bob Zupke is expected to reveal some modernistic football formations in his fight to even the Army-Illini series at two-all.

Michigan vs. Minnesota
The Gopher fans want an old fashioned massacre with the Wolverines the victims. Over the long series Michigan has won 19 games against the Gophers, lost only four and tied two, scoring in every game except last year's scoreless tie and piling up 321 points against 132 for Minnesota.

Purdue vs. Chicago
The Maroon fans, excited at last over Chicago's championship chances, want to see if it's all true or just another dream. A great offensive battle is certain between the rival sets of backs. Jay Berwanger and Ned Barlett of the Maroons have average 5.1 yards and 4.2 yards per try, respectively, this season; Jim Carter and Duane Purvis, Purdue's touchdown twins, have averaged 5.76 yards and 4.58 yards per try, respectively, in four games to date.

Indiana-Iowa
Wisconsin-Northwestern
Consolation games with each.

The migration of birds, to a southern country is due mostly to the problem of securing food, and not to the cold. Several species of birds survive the cold weather of our temperate climes, but all of these birds are especially well fitted for securing food under trying conditions.

COACH OF NAVY TERM SEES WIN OVER THE ARMY

Tom Hamilton Calmest of Major Coaches Officials Say

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 1.—(AP)—A sort of synthetic gloom afflicts many a football coach in speaking of his team's chances against major rivals—but not young Tom Hamilton of Navy.

There is a glint in his dark eyes as he comes right out and says: "We're going to lick the Army when we meet a month hence."

"The Cadets have a great ball club, but I feel, and my players feel, that this is our year."

"We won't concede the Army a thing; my boys think they can beat Army, and it is going to be hard for the Cadets to convince them to the contrary," Hamilton says as a cold wind from Chesapeake Bay whips over the practice field.

Hamilton thinks Navy has "a chance" against every foe it meets this month — Washington & Lee, Notre Dame, Pittsburgh and Army.

Take 'em as They Come

"We have a chance against any and all of them," he explains. "And we will play them as they come."

Hamilton's associates at the Naval Academy sometimes think ice water flows through his veins. He's a cool customer, this 26-year-old junior lieutenant of naval aviation, the youngest coach of a major team.

"He is the calmest coach I've ever seen," one official remarked. "It astonishes us. Where other coaches have been nervous and almost ill with excitement before a game, Tom is the coolest man in the crowd."

This Hamilton was quarterback on the last Navy team that even gained so much as a tie with the Cadets. It was his kicking that brought the Middles a 21 to 21 stalemate in the famous battle at Chicago in 1926.

GOV'T. WORKERS NOT SATISFIED WITH PROMISES

Will Seek More Than a Mere Restoration of Old Time Salaries

Washington, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Federal employees started a campaign today for more money than President Roosevelt has promised to pay them.

The President announced yesterday that plans are in the making to restore the remaining 5 per cent wage cut next July 1. Forecasts a rise in prices, he also said that would mean a rise in values.

A drive to go beyond the restoration and increase salary rates for every grade of worker was announced immediately by Claude E. Z. Babcock, president of the American Federation of Government Employees.

Seek Reclassification

The federation seeks a reclassification of salaries, so that thousands of employees said to be doing work above the grades in which they are rated may get more compensation.

The President's promise is said to mean an average increase of $70 a year for the government employee, of whom there are 92,557 in Washington and $85,000 in other parts of the country.

President Babcock said: "A reliable picture of prices to-day will show that full restoration of the salary cuts is more than warranted. As prices advance, it amounts to a further pay cut for federal employees. Only a substantial salary increase will help remedy that injustice."

For That Turtle Soup

Of the three common kinds of sea turtles, the hawksbill is exploited for tortoise shell, and the green turtle for its flesh, says the American Nature association. The remaining one of the trio, the log gerhead, seems not to offer any special temptation to man, but like the others has its nest robbed to an extent that threatens its abundance.

FARLEY SUPPORT OF SINCLAIR IS QUOTED NEW YORK

Has Brought Religious Issue Into Campaign in Farley's State

Washington, Nov. 1.—(AP)—High Democratic leaders sought today to counteract any effects the now famous Farley-Sinclair mixup may have on the New York state gubernatorial election.

Some of the leaders were concerned over reports that certain foes of Governor Herbert H. Lehman are making headway by telling Catholic, Jewish and Protestant voters that National Chairman James A. Farley really endorsed Upton Sinclair and that Sinclair is against all religion.

Though expressing confidence that Lehman, a close friend of President Roosevelt, would win out in the furious campaign with Robert Moses, embattled Republican candidate, Democratic chieftains are believed to be planning special efforts to convince the voters that neither Chairman Farley nor President Roosevelt has endorsed the former Socialist who seeks the California governorship.

Blame Minor Clerk

They will try to bring home their explanation that a letter urging Sinclair's election bearing the rubber stamp signature of Farley was sent from Democratic headquarters through a mistake by a minor employee.

Republicans, led by Representative Hamilton Fish (R. N. Y.), are saying "it does seem a little strange for Mr. Farley to join the band wagon behind Upton Sinclair, who has denounced all religious beliefs, including those of the Catholics, Protestants and Jews."

California foes of Sinclair have made wide use of excerpts from a book about religion which he once published. Supporters have accused his critics of distortion. The religious argument has been one of the features of the west coast fight.

As for the campaign in general, Republicans and Democrats still continued to argue today about Federal spending for relief and other purposes.

PRICE OF WHEAT
PEGGED ON WINNIPEG EXCHANGE

Winnipeg, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Pegged wheat prices went into effect on the Winnipeg grain exchange today for the second time in the history of its trading operations.

(Chicago) traders expressed belief the step would have little effect on the American market. They said two drought seasons had made the United States almost independent of foreign grain fluctuations and that Chicago prices continued above those of Winnipeg and Liverpool.

The pegging move was interpreted as a victory for farmers and the first step in government regulation. The council of the exchange at an emergency session last night adopted regulations under which December futures cannot go below yesterday's close of 75 cents and the May future was pegged at the minimum of 80 cents, 1-8 cent above yesterday's close. Higher prices, of course, can be bid in trading.

Renewed foreign selling pressure was the immediate cause of the pegging of prices. Farmers' organizations had requested the step, alleging the futures market operated against the benefit of the producer.

Ale an Ancient Beverage

Ale is older than literature, for in the first fragments of recorded history occurs mention of the beverage as having previously existed. Bibliography, which is bewilderingly extensive on the subject of ale and beer, seems pretty well agreed on the statement that ale was known in China 4,000 years before Christ and in Egypt at least 4,000 years ago.

The Clew of the Forgotten Murder

CARLETON KENDRAKE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

When CHARLES MORDEN, reporter for The Blade, found dead DAN BLEEKER, publisher, employee SIDNEY GRIFF, famous criminologist, to solve the murder. MORDEN had been investigating the affairs of FRANK B. CATHAY, wealthy and prominent. Following the arrest of an impostor claiming to be Cathay and accompanied by a girl called MARY BRIGGS.

The day following MORDEN's death Cathay dies of poisoning. GRIFF learns that MORDEN had visited the apartment of ALICE LORTON who has reported to police the disappearance of her roommate, ESTHER ORDWAY.

GRIFF accuses Alice of being involved in MORDEN's murder but does not succeed in breaking down her story. He talks to HARRY FANCHER, inventor, with whom Cathay broke an engagement on the night of the arrest.

Detectives report to GRIFF that Alice Lorton and a man believed to be KENNETH BOONE left her apartment shortly after GRIFF's call there.

Bleeker locates the cab driver who took MORDEN to Alice's apartment.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXV

WHILE Bleeker was telephoning, Sidney Griff paced restlessly up and down the apartment. His head was thrust forward. His eyes were squinted in thought. He seemed utterly oblivious of Dan Bleeker and of the telephoned instructions Bleeker was giving to his newspaper.

When Bleeker had hung up the telephone and returned to his chair Griff suddenly whirled on him.

"How about putting them on that Elite Apartment to shadow whoever came out? Did you do it?"

Bleeker looked crestfallen.

"I did it," he said, "but I'm afraid I did it too late."

"So," said Griff softly and with an ominous calm, "you let her get away from you. Is that right?"

"Not Esther Ordway," said Bleeker. "She'd gone already. There was no use watching the place after she'd left, except to get a line on someone who might come there and I couldn't see how we could find out just who was going to her apartment and who was going to the apartment of some other person."

At any rate, the apartment is still there and the man is watching. It's Alice Lorton who has left. My men report there's no one in the apartment."

Sidney Griff made a snorting, explosive sound.

"Well," he said, "we'll let it pass. I'll tell you more about that after a while. What else have you got?"

"The mail," Bleeker said. "I can't understand it."

"What about it?"

"We got Esther Ordway's banking statement with the canceled checks. It had been mailed to her by her bank, apparently in response to a request she had telephoned in."

"What about it?"

"We got Esther Ordway's banking statement with the canceled checks. It had been mailed to her by her bank, apparently in response to a request she had telephoned in."

"We've already checked him," asked Bleeker.

"No," Griff said. "I know who he was and why the letter was written and, without reading the letter, I am willing to wager there is some reference in it to her roommate, Alice Lorton."

"There is," Bleeker said.

Griff nodded slowly.

"But aren't you going to read the letter?" asked Bleeker.

Griff shook his head and tossed the letter to the desk.

PCLO NEWS

By Kathryn Keagy

Polo Twenty-one members of the Y. P. B. of the W. C. T. U. enjoyed a Halloween party at the Methodist church Monday evening. Musical numbers were furnished by Oscar Wright and Virgil Waterbury. Games were enjoyed and refreshments were served. In con-

"Ah," he said, "a young woman who is out of work, and yet she makes rather large deposits. A deposit of $500. Then one of $750! And here's one of $2000!"

He picked up the checks one by one, suddenly stared at one of them.

Bleeker spoke impatiently. "That's the only one that counts," he said. "It's a check payable to Kenneth Boone, for the entire balance on hand. It cleans out the account."

Griff nodded slowly. "The check," he said, "is dated on the day Charles MORDEN was murdered."

Bleeker took a letter from his pocket.

"Here," he said, "is a letter from the bank, stating that in pursuance of telephoned instructions they are sending her her canceled checks and statement showing that the account had been cleaned out."

Griff took the letter.

"And," Bleeker pointed out, "the date of the telephone conversation is the day following MORDEN's murder."

Griff studied the letter, with his forehead in furrows of acing concentration.

"If," Bleeker said, "we only had some way of locating this Kenneth Boone we could . . ."

"If," Griff interrupted impatiently, "you had followed my instructions by placing your men on duty at the Elite Apartment you would have known all about Kenneth Boone by this time."

Bleeker took a letter from his pocket.

"There's a letter," he said, "sent to Esther Ordway. Apparently it's something in the nature of a love letter. It's signed Robert Chelton. It's sent from Summerville. It was sent out Sunday—that's yesterday—and arrived on the early mail this morning. It's rather ardent in its terms of affection."

The criminologist turned the letter over slowly in his fingers.

"You have, of course, taken steps to find out about the writer of this letter?" he asked.

"I've taken the steps, yes," Bleeker said. "It's too early, as yet, to get a report."

"When you get a report," Griff said slowly, "you will find that Robert Chelton registered at a hotel in Summerville; that the address which he gave was either so general it is of no assistance or that it is fictitious; that he remained long enough to write and mail this letter and that he then checked out of the hotel and no one knows where he went."

"You've already checked him?" asked Bleeker.

"No," Griff said. "I know who he was and why the letter was written and, without reading the letter, I am willing to wager there is some reference in it to her roommate, Alice Lorton."

"There is," Bleeker said.

Griff nodded slowly.

"But aren't you going to read the letter?" asked Bleeker.

Griff shook his head and tossed the letter to the desk.

"The key witness," announced Sidney Griff in the next installment, "is going to be Mrs. Blanche Malone if we can find her while she is still alive."

DEMOCRATS SEE HUGE GAINS IN THE NORTHEAST

Predict Victories in Every Stronghold of Republicans

New York, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Republican seats in the Senate, the last stronghold of the party in twelve northeastern states, which pay more than half the federal income taxes and contain a quarter of the country's population, will be under heavy fire on election day.

In the present congress are 16 Republican and 8 Democratic senators from Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia and Delaware.

Thirteen of these seven Republicans and six Democrats hold over from the present to the next congress and Maine has already re-elected its Republican senator. Ten Senate seats are at stake Nov. 6, the candidates including seven Republican and two Democratic incumbents.

With Democrats already counting a majority in the house from the eastern states, their spokesmen have predicted that this advantage no only will be enlarged but that the final senatorial count may show 13 Democrats and 11 Republicans.

Demus See Big Gains

Emil Jurja, coordinator of the Democratic National Committee, expressed confidence that senate seats of Connecticut and Rhode Island would be wrested from the Republicans and he maintained that the party is "not conceding Vermont, either officially or privately." Democratic spokesmen also say they see certain and possible Democratic victories in Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Maryland and West Virginia, and are optimistic about the Republican stalwart state of Pennsylvania.

But equally confident are the Republicans, who have hammered against the "New Deal" in virtually every contest. Republican National Committee headquarters declined to concede any congressional losses in New England and said the Democrats "will be lucky to hold what they've got."

GOP spokesmen, expected the party to pick up three seats in the house and while calling the senatorial routs in Connecticut and Rhode Island close, contended their incumbents maintained a decided edge.

A. F. of L. in Politics

The American Federation of Labor entered the eastern picture by urging the defeat of four Republican senators who are candidates for re-election — Hebert of Rhode Island, Walcott of Connecticut, Reed of Pennsylvania and Hatfield of West Virginia.

The twelve states are now represented in congress by 70 Democrats and 65 Republicans, all but two of whom are standing for re-election. Eight states have Democratic governors and four are headed by Republicans. Among the gubernatorial candidates is Albert Ritchie, Democrat, of Maryland, whose 15 years as governor constitute a national endurance record. He seeks a fifth term.

Manhattan's "Battle of the Models" over the invasion of the field on society beauties has at last come into the open. The girls who parade clothes before the public to earn a living launched their picketing campaign when society women served as models without pay at a charity fashion show conducted by one of the smart restaurants in E 53d St. Finally police were called to disperse them. The irate beauties are shown above as they paraded to keep patrons from viewing what they called an "amateurish exhibition". COSMETICS AND ANTIQUITY

A medical writer recently no doubt at the risk of his skin, ventured the opinion that cosmetics and vanity are twins. Since vanity is an innate human quality, its twin cosmetics, should reach back into the remotest periods of history. And so it does.

In the tombs of the Egyptians, in the satirical writings of the Romans and in the earnest compositions of the ancient physicians, cosmetics figured prominently. The ancient used eye paints, hair dyes, rouge, perumes, face enamels, depilatories skin foods beauty plasters, bleaches etc.

One is impressed with the fact that human vanity was as strong then as it is today.

Martial the Roman satirical writer, composed an epigram on the cosmetic practices of the contemporary women in the following words:

"The face you show the world is laid at night
Not in your bed, but in your humdrum rouge-pots."

Ovid, who wrote on the arts of love and courtship, devotes much space to cosmetics and recommends among other things, the use of honey and barley to soften the skin.

Naturally, with the use of cosmetics, hair dyes, etc., the ancients realized the risks involved, and so we find Ovid mentioning the dryness and brittleness and poisoning resulting from the use of hair dyes. Tertullian gives specific instructions on how to avoid being poisoned and injured by cosmetic substances.

From this consideration, the modern women can gather some consolation. For one thing, it would appear that the use of cosmetics was more widespread and more bizarre among certain of the ancient groups than is to be witnessed in any class today.

Second, that modern cosmetics, by and large, are safer to use, are better in quality and more varied than the cosmetics that were at the command of Cleopatra, or of the wife of Nera, whose famous milk-of-ass baths make interesting history.

The Name "Fidac"

The letters F. I. D. A. C. is the shortened form of the name taken by the Federation of Allied Legions, founded in 1920, with headquarters at Paris, France. The letters stand for the French name of the organization, Federation Interalliée des Anciens Combattants.

A Ghost Story

The Dixon Telegraph of October 30, in a story of a Republican meeting held at the First Methodist Church in Dixon on October 29th, quoted Mr. H. C. Warner, Republican County Chairman, as follows:

"He charged that a prominent Illinoisan well known to many present, had been sent to Russia by the government, at a fancy salary, stating that this individual would return within a few months wearing a beard and paid to betray the American government and overthrow its principles."

The charge is silly, yet serious. Silly because it is ridiculous, but serious because he accuses government officials with treason in plotting to betray the government.

We ask Mr. Warner, as a patriotic American citizen, to name the government officials who employed this "prominent Illinoisan"; to name this man who is so employed; to give the amount of his "fancy salary" and to tell us the color of his whiskers so that we can be on the lookout for him when he returns from Russia.
